

Sphere

A sphere is the locus of a point which moves in space in such a way that its distance from a fixed point always remains constant.

The fixed point is called the center and the constant distance is called the radius of the sphere.

